Type of certificate we are able to issue (please click the relevant box).

EU Certificate (UK-qualified up to and including Part 2 level)

These certificates are only available to EEA citizens or those who have other enforceable EU rights: e.g. the spouse of an EEA national. This will confirm that you hold qualifications which meet the minimum standards for automatic recognition of qualifications as set out in Article 46 of Directive 2005/36/EC. Typically this will permit another EEA country to recognise your qualifications as equivalent to their own national qualifications at the same level and, if applicable, access to its final qualifying examinations etc.

EU Registered Certificate (UK-qualified up to and including Part 3 level)

These certificates are only available to EEA citizens or those who have other enforceable EU rights: e.g. the spouse of an EEA national. This will confirm that you hold qualifications which meet the minimum standards for automatic recognition of qualifications as set out in Article 46 of Directive 2005/36/EC, and that you have secured the UK 'accompanying certificate' of Part 3, as required under Annex V (5.7.1) of the Directive. Typically, this should enable another EEA state to recognise your qualifications for access to the profession of architect without any further compensation measures.

Section 5 or 4(2A) Certificate

These certificates are only available to EEA citizens or those who have other enforceable EU rights: e.g. the spouse of an EEA national. This will confirm that you hold qualifications issued by another relevant EEA country, which enabled you to register with the Board. If you registered prior to 20 June 2008, the certificate will also confirm that you satisfied the practical training requirement then necessary under Article 23.2 of Directive 85/384/EEC. If you registered after 20 June 2008, the certificate will confirm that you satisfied your home state's requirements for access to the profession of architect. Typically these certificates are used by EEA citizens when returning to or providing services in another EEA country.

General Certificate (UK-qualified up to and including Part 3 level)

These certificates are available to all registered architects and do not have a nationality requirement applied. This will confirm that you hold qualifications which are prescribed by the Board or have been assessed as equivalent under Section 4(1) of the Architects Act 1997. Typically, these are used when travelling to non-European countries, or where summary details of Part 1, Part 2 and Part 3 qualifications are helpful.
